Gentlemen:

We have been touched and we are thankful to you for the feelings of regret and compassion you expressed in your letter of the 7th of this month for the heavy human and material losses our country and the Romanian people have suffered following the recent terrible earthquake.

Your message has been a comforting one and we consider it as a new expression of friendship and solidarity with Romania and its people.

I avail myself of this opportunity to renew to you, Gentlemen, the assurance of my distinguished consideration.
